Zwirner Equipment Company

Zwirner Equipment Company offers new and reconditioned stainless steel machinery, engineering, parts, reconditioning, repairs, transportation and field installation of equipment for the dairy, food processing, beverage & pharmaceutical industries. A new facility located in Hartsville, Tennessee was opened in September, 2013 offering extensive inventory and parts on site that enable orders to be expedited direct to the processing facility. Zwirner entered the stainless steel equipment business in 1982, working for his father, who founded Heritage Equipment Company in Ohio. Zwirner purchased the business from his father in 1996 before he sold it in 2009. He now owns Zwirner Equipment Company. "Our focus is to take care of the customer, at any cost". This is a nationwide service. ZEC has a capability of distributing several lines of new equipment, including stainless steel storage, mixing and processing tanks, CIP tanks, high-temperature short time balance tanks, silo tanks & kettles, as well as a full range of pumps, heat exchangers, flow control parts and fittings.
